Armed Guard To Meet Prisoners When Taken From 7.53 Owl Train

CHIEF POLICE COX TO ASSIGN SPECIAL FORCE

LOS ANGELES, March 16.—William Hickman, charged with the murder of Marion Parker, began his journey north tonight. He was guarded with delegation of sheriffs and detectives, who helped accompany a party of sixteen other prisoners.

A corps of armed officers under Chief of Police Cox will be stationed at the S. P. depot this morning when it is expected that William Edward Hickman, kidnaper and slayer of Marion Parker, Los Angeles school girl, will arrive aboard the Owl at 7.53. Hickman will be accompanied by Wally Hunt, 17, the youthful killer's confederate in the slaying of C. Ivy Toms, Los Angeles drugist.

Immediately upon their arrival at the Richmond station, the two young killers will be speedily transported to the docks where they will be put aboard a ferry for San Quentin. Hickman will be placed in solitary confinement to await his trip to the scaffold.

A large crowd of the curious were expected to witness Hickman's arrival, anxious for a peek at the slayer who escapedes have attracted national attention.

DAVIS SISTERS BRING 2 AUTO CRASH ACTIONS

MARTINEZ, March 16.—Injured in same automobile accident, two Richmond sisters, Harriet Davis, 6, and Marie Davis, 17, filed suits in Superior Court here today against Mary Page of Richmond, in which they each ask damages of $15,000. The actions were instituted through their mother, Mrs. J. M. Baird.

The suits recite that the girls were injured on March 3 in collision at Forty-fourth street and Macdonald avenue, Richmond, of cars driven by their stepfather, J. M. Baird, in which they were passengers, and the defendant. Claim is made in both actions that the crash was caused by the negligent operation of the defendant's automobile.

Dont Seek Wildflowers On Another Man's Property If You Would Avoid Trouble

Seekers of wildflowers who hear the call of spring will, in all probability, hereafter confine their hunting to the unprotected hills. At least they will not trespass on Peter Garrity's ranch near San Pablo.

Garrity, for some time has been bothered by motorists clipping the barbed-wire fences which keep his young cattle from promanading out onto the highway. The motorists have been anxious to pluck the cowslips and poppies which grow abundantly in Garrity's pasture lands.

Yesterday, two young men giving their names as Jacob Van Elswyk and E. E. Arnold, of Oakland, disregarded the signs that Garrity had posted on his property upon the advice of the district attorneys office warning trespassers to stay away. They entered the pasture for some of the attractive wildflowers.

Paulsen Ready To Have Joke On Mark Twain

In emulation of the beloved Mark Twain who glorified the phrase — "The report of my death has been greatly exaggerated" — L. L. Paulsen, prominent realty dealer and member of the Richmond City Council, was yesterday compelled to issue a bulletin bearing the intelligence that his reported suicide had been grossly magnified.

It seems that the councilman indulged in a bit of fine satire at a recent meeting when he read a communication addressed to him, in which he was indignantly assailed by an indignant citizen.

"I'm going to commit suicide Thursday," was Paulsen's joking comment.

It went over all right with his fellow members of the board, but the story traveled until, shorn of its mock seriousness, the report became general that the councilman had committed self destruction.

So Paulsen spent the better part of Friday convincing friends that he was still alive — very much so, in fact.

W. P. STOREY OF SANTE FE EXPECTED HERE

W. P. Storey, president of the Santa Fe railroad, was expected to arrive in Richmond today for an inspection of the terminal and to look over the situation in the inner and outer harbor. The company recently was awarded a franchise by the city council to construct a spur track along Cutting boulevard in order to extend tracks over the Mintzer properties to the San Francisco Bridge company plant, and the new copra grinding plant which will be located near Point Potrero.

Intensive development of a terminal area is expected to follow the railroad extension.

El Cerrito Family Escaped L. A. Flood

EL CERRITO, March 16.—The family of Winifred D. Stark, 40 Park Way, was being congratulated today upon their escape from the disastrous Santa Clara river valley flood.

Stark, his wife, and Winifred, their four-year-old daughter, passed over the coast highway bridge crossing the Santa Clara river barely an hour before the flood demolished it.

"I wish we could see some water in this dry river bed some time when we cross it," remarked Mrs. Stark as they passed over the bridge. Stark recalled today the tragedy until the reached their home here, having driven directly from Los Angeles. Stark said they left Los Angeles late and drove rapidly.

"Had I gone a little slower," he said, "we might have been in the valley just about the time of the flood, which goes to show that there is a good reason for going faster than 20 miles an hour sometimes."

DOHENY PLANT TO GET FIRST OIL SHIPMENT

The first shipment of oil for the Petroleum Securities company's new Richmond plant will be received about May 1 when construction work will be far enough advanced to receive the shipments, according to an announcement made yesterday by Frank H. Seaver, personal representative of E. L. Doheny and in charge of the Richmond plant construction.

Three of the huge 100,000 barrel tanks are practically completed.

The Gallagher company in Los Angeles is ready to begin installing the pontoon roofing which will make the tanks virtually fireproof.

A crew of 20 men was put to work yesterday installing a pipe line at the plant. This line, according to advices received, is not the one concerned in the present suit, settlement of which is expected to be arrived at out of court, but one located in another section of the property.

Besides the three tanks now installed, two others are nearing completion and work on the sixth and seventh will be started next week.

Zeb Knott, local paint contractor, who has been awarded the painting contracts, will begin work Monday or Tuesday on painting the large structures.

Dredging of the harbor at the Doheny site is practically completed and bids for the construction of the wharf will be called for within two weeks.

Small Claims Suits In Justice Court

Five small claims suits occupied the attention of Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Alstrom yesterday.

More than fifty of these claims are handled by the local court during the course of a month, local people finding the procedure a great boon where small amounts are involved. The advantages of small claims actions over civil suits react to the benefit of both plaintiff and defendant, in the respect that court costs amount to only a dollar, and the defendants are allowed considerable latitude in paying the judgment in order to not be submitted to hardship.

AIR HEROES IN RESCUE FLIGHT CONQUER DEATH

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., March 16.—The race against death against death was won today by Uncle Sam's heroes of the air who established communication with the isolated village of Detour brought Russell Goetz to a Sault hospital when all other means failed and took supplies and mail to the snow-bound village, the first to be taken direct in sixteen days. All of Detour turned out to witness the arrival of the planes.

Having effected a beautiful landing after being guided by Walter Durocher who was on the plane from the Soo, Pilot Lieut. Joseph Soper left his motor running while the critically sick man was loaded into the machine along with the sacks of mail. Dr. Loughbrough of Detour, accompanied the sick man to the Soo. On his first trip to Detour the Douglas transport, which arrived here last night from Selfridge field after bucking a headon blizzard, carried 400 pounds of mail and 1000 pounds of bread. More than three thousands pounds of mail wait here to be delivered to Detour by the airplane.

NEW HOPE FOR HINCHLIFFE'S PLANE AND ITS BRAVE GIRL AID TO PILOT MISS MACKAY

WASHINGTON, March 16.—New hope for Capt. Walter Hinchliffe and the Hon. Elsie Mackay, his companion, was conveyed to the American State Department today in a message from the Canadian legation, with a report that a plane had been sighted flying over Greenville, Me., and went down near that place.

The report said that a Mr. Dean of Hollingsworth & Whitty Co. of Greenville received a message from a lumber camp at Ronch's Pond that a large plane passed

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Swept along by the momentum of widespread public demand, The Swing-Johnson Boulder Dam bill code through the Senate Irrigation Committee today for approval with but one dissenting vote.

The line-up in favor of reporting the bill was 18 to 1. Senator Ashurst (D) of Arizona, bitter antagonist of the measure was the sole member to oppose it. Senator Simmons (D) of North Carolina did not vote.

The colossal $150,000,000 project is for construction of a lofty dam at Boulder Canyon in the lower Colorado River. It would impound the turbid flood waters of the Colorado, forming a vast lake, protect the rich Imperial Valley from a menacing flood danger, and provide electric power and water for domestic use over a wide area.

JOHNSON TO REPORT
Senator Johnson (R) of California who has waged a relentless battle for the bill, was ordered to report it to the Senate with the amendments proposed by Senator Phipps (R) of Colorado and Senator Pittman (D) of Nevada. They are but minor changes to the original measure.

The bitterly fought question of ultimate ownership of the project was left by the committee for congress to determine.

An amendment, in the bill provides that 18 3/4 per cent of the net revenue derived from the sale of power shall go to Arizona after amortization charges and upkeep are paid. Nevada will receive the same percentage of surplus revenues from power sold at the dam.

WHAT BILL PROVIDES

The bill provides for ratification by six states, instead of four, of the Colorado River compact. Up per basin states, as an added protective measure, have the assurance that California will not use more than 4,600,000 acre feet of water, aside from one-half of surplus waters.

The bill authorizes appropriation of $125,000,000 for construction of the entire project.

A Pittman amendment provides that California, Arizona, and Nevada shall have preferential rights for the purchase of power at the dam or for construction of a hydro electric plant for generating such power.

AUTOMOBILE BLACKSMITHING

Probably you did not know that the modern blacksmith has changed with the times. He no longer counts on shoeing old hobnail or setting wagon wheels for a livelihood. His work now is in cooperation with the garage and the automobile owner.

Automobile wheels are given the right pinch; axles are straightened; springs are repaired and replaced. In fact the Automobile Blacksmith does much the same for the automobile as he formerly did for the carriage and the wagon. See the Buyers Guide on page four.

CORE

One may get most any sort of story suited to his fancy about the prospective growth of Richmond, and yet not be very distant from his viewpoint. There is a great deal of speculation as to just what the Western Pacific Railroad is going to do, especially since the acquisition of the Sacramento-Bay District electric line connections.

Naturally most persons interested guess that the recent move of the Western to build thirty-two miles of road to connect with the Petaluma and Santa Rosa electric, has brought up the possibility of the extension of the Hill interests to some point on San Francisco Bay.

A little bird, and he is some feathered one in the railroad business, told one of us yesterday that the big lines are watching the Western closely. Arthur Currier James, who has made several of the largest railroad deals in recent years, has nothing to say, but the old Hill forecast that he would have a railroad with terminals on San Francisco Bay looms. Then why not Richmond for this big road system's harbor? The prophecy is not so far-fetched by any means.

JAILING A BABY

There is something shocking in the news that a 10-month-old baby girl has been committed to Bedford Reformatory to serve with her mother an indeterminate sentence imposed for the theft of $300.

The influence of jail surroundings on a young child cannot but be harmful in the highest degree. Bedford is not a nice place under the best of circumstances.

In it are confined women who are wrong. All of them are violators of the law. Most of them have broken the moral code repeatedly.

Many of them are diseased, for New York sends to this institution women who have contracted social sicknesses.

Into the midst of people of these types it is bad enough to send a person of normal health and normal mentality.

The associations of prison are enough to sap the vitality and to undermine the moral stamina of even robust women of mature years.

The effect on a young child can well be imagined.

Impressions will be made on that baby brain that a lifetime of other associations cannot eliminate. For it is generally agreed by eminent psychologists that the mind of young childhood is receptive of impressions that tend to influence all its future life and conduct.

To such facts that state is entirely blind. And to punish a mother it is ready to risk the entire career of a perfectly innocent young child.

This is a matter that should interest every mother and every father.

According to the New York papers the area in Manhattan Island has the greatest density of population in the world. Well, if there's any honor in having the densest people, go to it.

Twenty-one prisoners recently dug their way out of the Detroit jail. This will give some of the ultra-liberals the opportunity to demand jails which will be so pleasant the prisoners won't want to leave.

The politician who wants the uninstructed delegation is usually the fellow who is looking for the band wagon, but hasn't been able to locate it.

If Al Smith's campaign managers are as clever as they ought to be they will pretty soon begin to take straw votes along the Bowery.

If Columbus had never discovered America, wonder who Europe would be blaming all her troubles on by this time?

Fall Fashions To Be Wirelessly Here

These are hectic days in the dressmaking trade, for the Paris couturiers are holding their showing of next summer's models.

Armed with photographer and telegrapher, the dress buyer goes to the manikin parade. As a dress which pleases the buyer's fancy passes in the parade he buys it, rushes it to the photographer, sends the photograph to London by airplane, and their wirelessly it by the new telephoto process to New York. At the same time he sends by cable a minute description of the dress and its cloth.

That is how far science has progressed and why the ether is filled with dresses.

Experts in New York can copy the dress within two hours, so a dress draped on a manikin in Paris for the morning parade can be worn to a party on Park Avenue the same afternoon. From New York descriptions and pictures can be sent just as easily to all corners of America.

Biddle Heiress, Free Again, Formidable Rival Of Debs

New York, March 15.

Sue, dear—

Another very eligible grass widow added to the list.

Laura Biddle Stewart has just possessed herself of one of those nice new Paris decrees, and will probably be coming home soon to forget all about the fact that she was ever the wife of Will Rhineclander Stewart.

Laura is still young. She was only a little deb back in 1924, when Rhineclander Stewart married her. In fact, the wedding on November 20 came off almost before this daughter of the Craig Biddles had been presented to her particular social world of Philadelphia, New York and the continent.

Debs Must Watch Out.

She was eighteen then, little more than three years ago, so the little debbies will have to watch out. Competition with a young and extremely good-looking grass widow is sometimes very discouraging, if not so say disheartening, especially when she is a Biddle of the Biddles and hasn't yet voted for President.

Paris divorces haven't been so very plentiful lately, since the judges over along the Seine decided that there were entirely too many Americans "in residence" and started to throw their cases out of court. But Laura has gone at it very conservatively. She and her father, Craig Biddle, have been living in Paris for over a year, since the first of January 1927, so that there was no question about the divorce going through.

Romance Didn't Flourish

The Stewart romance never seemed to flourish properly. It had a wonderful start with the big wedding at Bryn Mawr (which just everybody attended), Laura being already singled out as a "beauty." Rhineclander Stewart had come in for a big slice of his mother's $40,000,000 estate, so with social prestige, looks and plenty of money, everything should have been rosy.

But something went wrong. Scarcely a year after the marriage there were all sorts of divorce rumors. Laura was over in Paris without her husband, and every one was absolutely sure that it was the end of their married life. But Stewart insisted that his wife had had a nervous breakdown and was recuperating abroad. Laura came back, but a year later she and her father made the trek to France and freedom.

And now that it is all over, every one is wondering who will be Laura's next husband—especially the little debs, with their eyes on the eligibles.

Tasty Dishes Prepared With Aid Of The Food Chopper

Among the many labor saving devices that are (or should be) in use in the kitchen of today, the food grinder is one of the most necessary.

This little silent helper has so many uses that housewives wonder how they ever got along without it. And that, you know, is the highest proof of the usefulness of any article.

It has done away with the old-fashioned chopping knife and the bowl, which were both cumbersome and time consuming, and even the grater is being overshadowed by the food grinder because—well, you name grater finger tips along with the cheese or bread.

While its uses are many and varied, yet housewives take a very joy in inventing still other uses for it. There is a woman who gleefully boasts that she could use her chopper right through from soup to dessert, but I would hardly advise so generous a use of a food chopper, preferring to use it as a labor saver and economizer rather than as a substitute for lecherizing.

With the aid of a good grinder many leftovers may be turned into attractive and appetizing dishes. More odds and ends of food may be changed into the most delicious of sandwiches, fillings. A handful of peanuts and a bit of cheese, or lack the peanuts, the cheese may be run through the grinder with a few ripe olives, a stalk of celery or a sprig of parsley. Half a dozen dates and a fig or two are not enough to send to the table, yet, run through the grinder with a few nuts and the addition of a bit of lemon juice, they make a delightful paste. Spread on rounds of stale wheat bread, run them into the oven for five minutes and you have an excellent dessert, with or without cream.

If when making fruit butters or marmalades, the fruit is run through the grinder (use rather coarse blade) the work will be considerably lessened. Vegetables for soups and especially for the making of vegetable stock should also be put through the chopper. A few turns of the handle are easier, and take less time than cutting the vegetables up by hand.

Affairs of the Heart and Your Marriage Problems

Patricia Lee

Patricia Lee answers questions relating to problems of married life. Names and address should be added to letters as a mark of good faith but will not be published. Readers who desire private answers should inclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover cost of typing, etc. Because of space limitations it is not possible to print answers to all letters received, and readers who wish an early reply should take advantage of this special service. On account of the large quantity of mail coming to this department, about ten days should be allowed for a reply. Write to Patricia Lee, care of this paper.

Dear Patricia Lee:

I am married four years. I am 22 years old and have three children. My husband is very handy about the house; we bought a little home and he is fixing it all himself. We have a boarder 42 years old and I am discouraged because my husband always talks to him and not to me. He never plays with the children, either. He gives me his pay every week and he does not want to know what I do with it as long as I know how to manage it. But he never has anything to say to me. When he and the boarder get done talking he goes to bed. I love him; but Miss Lee, he won't talk to me Rose.

Dear Rose:

You are right, my dear, to consider this a problem. It may seem like a small thing when your husband is so good to you in every other way, but it is on just this sense of comradeship and mutual interest that married happiness depends. Now first I want to remind you that you are only 22. Go to the mirror and look at yourself. Do you wear a pretty little dress around the house? The secret you know is to get a man—even if he is your husband to look at you. Then he will talk. But don't try to talk to him about business; tell him the funny little things that happen. Try to get out more, read the books and newspapers and discuss every day happenings. Finally, don't attempt at the very beginning to get your husband off alone, but make it a discussion that involves your boarder too. You can do it, I am sure.

DADDY DUSK

Twinnie was leaning way out over the edge of Lindy's place looking down at the field. Of course, she was asleep and dreaming, but she did not know that. Suddenly the shamrocks that were sticking up out of the little green island grew bigger and bigger. They looked like great big clovers must look to little bees when they are flying over the field.

Right in front of them was a huge white pipe with a bright green ribbon tied to it. Twinnie thought that it was Lindy's St. Louis was going to fly right into the bowl of that pipe.

And then suddenly Twinnie saw that it was not a pipe at all, but a fishing boat. And Lindy was going right for the fishing boat. She could see that the fishermen, white with heads and green coats, were smoking the white pipes. The shamrocks were all gone, and now they were out on the ocean again.

Lindy flew almost down to the deck of the sailboat.

"Which way to Paris?" he asked.

"Bogorah and th' lad wants to be going to Paris," one of the fishermen said.

Twinnie was so afraid that they would not tell Lindy which way to go.

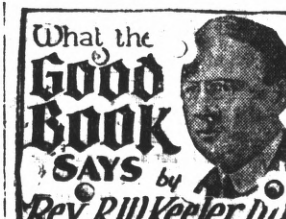

"He's Lindy," she said. "Please tell him."

"Oh yes, Lindy. Of course, sure and it's Lindy. Why, Paris is thataway," pointing in the direction they were going. You are the right road for Paris."

A swoop, whoop, up came the plane, and before she could catch her breath again they were shooting out over the ocean.

WHY I BLUSHED

I was called on to make a fifteen minute extemporaneous talk in school. After talking for ten minutes, the teacher asked me what topic I was discussing. To my utter amazement I couldn't possibly think of what topic I had started out to discuss.

What Do You Know?

sell your papa. Maybe he will understand."

Jack laughed—a bitter, sardonic laugh. "Well, a Cantor! Funny, that's what it is—funny." He pounded his fist hysterically. "I was rehearsing with the choir. They were all like strangers to me—all those kids that I used to play with. I didn't even know them—never seen them before, it seemed. Sure! I'm from uptown—Broadway. They looked at me peculiarly. I could read what they thought. They were all pointing at me and saying: 'Jackie Rabinowitz, jazz singer! Jackie Rabinowitz, jazz singer!'"

Lee went over and stood beside the boy. "We have just exactly a half an hour to get to the theatre," he spoke very quietly.

"It's all right, Jackie. You can go!" Mrs. Rabinowitz's voice rang with deep fullness. She might have been a mother of Israel offering up her first born for the sacrifice. There was a look of supreme joy in her face.

At that moment the door to the Cantor's room opened and the nurse stepped out. "Will you come in, Mrs. Rabinowitz?" she spoke quietly, but her appearance terrified Jackie and his mother into action.

"What is the matter? The Cantor? Is he—how worse?" Mrs. Rabinowitz hurried to the door, followed by Jack.

"I'm afraid—it's the end," the nurse hesitated. "I want to phone the doctor." She sat down to make her call.

For a moment Jack hesitated. Then he caught his mother's hand. "Mama," he cried, "Mama! I'm going to sing tonight. Tell papa I'm going to sing! I'm not going back to the theatre."

"Jackie! Mrs. Rabinowitz burst into tears.

"I'm your son, Mama," Jackie's voice was like clear ice. "I'm the son of my father. Mama, I'm a Cantor, see? I'm Cantor Rabinowitz! God's going to hear me sing 'Kol Nidre' tonight! I'll be singing to you and papa, Mama—papa will hear me singing. He'll understand!"

"Jackie! Your papa will be so happy—so happy—With tears streaming she went in to her husband.

"Oh, my God!" Jack moaned.

"Papa is dying. I know it! It's a sign. He told me God would punish me! He told me. I thought I could get away from Cantor! Well, God showed me. The Day of Atonement! I'll say it's the Day of Atonement!" He burst into a throaty sobbing. Mary, wept over and took hold of Jack's arm, soothing him.

"It's all right, Jack," she murmured. "It's all right." Softly she talked to him until the sobbing ceased and the tears stopped. Jack picked up his prayer shawl and put on his skull cap. "Jack, is there anything you want me to do?" Mary asked.

"No, only just root for me—to get over. Like you did before," Jack smiled faintly. "I'll be all right—I'm not afraid. What a little boy learns he never forgets. Goodbye, Mary." He kissed the mawzuz, and in a moment he was gone.

Mary and Lee sat down, staring at each other. The nurse finished talking to the doctor and hurried back to her patient.

"The doctor will be here in just a few minutes," she told Mrs. Rabinowitz who was bending over the Cantor anxiously. "I'm doing what I can." She busied herself about the bedside table.

The Cantor scarcely breathed now. His face was the color of ashes, and a strange, blue pallor was on his lips. Once in a while his fingers trembled spasmodically. That was the only sign of life he showed. Mrs. Rabinowitz took his hand and smoothed it. The choir boys bent over him, listening. She could just catch the faint intake of his breath.

Suddenly on the still air there came the faint sounds of music, wafted through the open window. The Cantor stirred slightly. Mrs. Rabinowitz raised her head, listening.

"Open the door, nurse," she said softly. "I want the Cantor should hear Jackie sing."

The nurse looked at the still figure on the bed and then quietly pushed the door open. The music sounded a little louder now. The first plaintive notes of the "Kol Nidre" came stealing in. Louder and louder it swelled, the choir chanting in a rhythmic minor. Louder and louder the infinite pathos of the song of Zion welled and rose. High above it, sounding clear and resonant, rolled the voice of Jackie Rabinowitz. Rising and falling, swelling to ecstatic heights, the flood of prayer filled the little synagogue and stole across the Cantor's bedroom.

With tremendous effort the Cantor slowly opened his eyes. They fell about again, but in another moment they were open, the misty look slowly clearing. With supernatural force he raised his head slightly. It fell back on the pillow. Mrs. Rabinowitz, catching his wish, lifted him. His head rested like a baby's on her breast. He looked up. A glorified smile lighted his face. He drew a deep breath.

"It's my Jackie, Sara," he murmured.

"Yes, papa, it's Jackie." His throat rattled hoarsely. His fingers clutched spasmodically at the coverlet. His eyes rolled in his head. His body went limp. The nurse rushed to the bedside. She caught hold of his pulse. She bent her head to listen to the heart-beats. Mrs. Rabinowitz stared, unseeing, listening to the music that thrived within and surged through the room. It was Jackie—Jackie singing. Cantor Rabinowitz singing to his God in the temple of his fathers. She sighed peacefully. The nurse raised her head.

"It's all over, Mrs. Rabinowitz," she said sadly.

Mrs. Rabinowitz stared at her uncomprehendingly. She looked down at the limp figure on her bosom. The nurse was taking her away and allowing the head to fall back on the pillow. She closed the unseeing eyes. Mrs. Rabinowitz looked dazedly at the figure of her husband.

"He's—he's dead!" She awayed. The nurse caught her and forced her into the chair. "He's dead," she kept murmuring to herself. Now there were no tears. She couldn't cry. She sat swaying—awayed, moving with the rhythm of the music. Her brain was numb.

In the next room Mary and Lee sat silent. From the Synagogue came the radiance of light streaming through the stained glass windows. It bathed the homely little room in pristine splendor. It caught on the cut glass and spun glittering rainbows of color that darted off in thin lines. It turned to massive beauty and heavy old furniture. It played at hide-and-seek in the corners.

As the music swelled louder Lee looked up and shook his head. "There goes your bias," came a dian," he said listlessly.

CALIFORNIA TO MAKE HIT WITH COMEDY FILM

Twins, triplets and a blueberry pie—a midget masquerading as a baby and two college boys in love—with trimmings—these are among the queer and heterogeneous elements that blend into one of the laughs of the season "Baby Mine." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's second Karl Dane-George K. Arthur co-starring play, now being shown at the California Theatre.

"Rookies" was a classic in comedy but "Baby Mine" goes a few steps further in the gentle art of rib-tickling. For one thing the team of Dane and Arthur—the "Big Bertha of Laughland"—is augmented by a hilarious howitzer, so to speak in the person of Charlotte Greenwood—she of the scissors-like nether appendages and the semaphore arms. It is the first appearance in pictures of the famous stage star of "So Long Letty," "Candy Cottage" and others. The lanky comedienne is a veritable riot of laughs.

Her scenes with Karl Dane, in which he makes love, are among the funniest things the screen has ever seen—and the trials and tribulations growing out of masquerading as an infant, and the rest of the comical flurry that results when a borrowed baby is needed to convince Dane of his parenthood are a whirl of hilarity.

The picture was adapted from Margaret Mayo's famous stage play, by Robert Z. Leonard, who directed it, and F. Hugh Herbert and Sylvia Thalberg, who adapted it, went many steps further than the stage version did. Louise Lorraine is pretty in the straight feminine lead.

The "clink" is one of the high lights in the comedy scenes and the chase for the stolen babies and the complications that come in wholesale lots add to the hilarity.
Other features include "Tollies," a screen novelty; "School Daze," an inkwell cartoon; and current news events.

HENRY FORD TO FACE BIG SUIT

DETROIT, Mich., March 1.—Henry Ford must face trial of the $10,000,000 "breach of faith" suit filed against him last December by Henry M. and Wilfred C. Leland. They founded the old Lincoln Motor Company which Ford bought in at a Federal court receiver's sale in 1922 for $8,000,000.

Co-plaintiffs with the Lelands are some 2,000 former stockholders whom the Lelands charged Ford promised to reimburse for their total investment, but had never done so. Ford attorneys sought dismissal of the suit in a motion containing several counts chiefly that of fraud.

Probe Chicago Stock Scandal

CHICAGO, March 16.—The Chicago Stock Exchange committee today announced that all members had been ordered to report their standing with regard to the sudden jump in the price of stock of the Keystone Steel and Wire company.

A rise of $26 a share to a new high record of $260 today was said to have led to the call for reports. The price was $160 a share above the low level for the year, and $215 a share above the low level of $45, reached last year. The surprising advance was also held responsible for reports of a struggle for control of the company, which has always been largely in the hands of one family. The company's main factories are in Peoria and Pekin, Ill. It was organized in 1889. Its officers are B. L. W. H. John D. F. and Henry G. Sommer.

GREAT MEN OF TODAY, KIDS OF YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, March 16.—Great men are merely those who as children were placed fortunately and "got a break." There are no geniuses. If you just aren't anybody, it's the fault of your upbringing.

Dr. John B. Watson, originator of Behavioristic Psychology, explained all this to the teachers attending a convention on character education at Columbia University, and shocked terribly the older women present who think children require and should have hugs and kisses.

Children would stand a better chance of becoming great men and women, Dr. Watson told them, if they were taken away from their mothers at birth. He didn't like to use the word mother, he said, because it meant a woman who makes a fuss over babies and makes worthless mollycoddles out of them.

"I never have kissed my four and six year old boys or held them on my lap," said Dr. Watson, "and I have had about twenty-five nurses for them, in an effort to eliminate cuddling every time they meet with some small defeat."

When I asked for more information on the subject Dr. Watson said: "There are no instincts. Environment is what matters. Caution should be instilled in children, but never fear."

"Children should be taught that sex is nothing to be ashamed of. When my boys were three years old I showed them a book on obstetrics with pictures. They have seen all the members of my household, including the servants, without clothes. They are not ashamed of their bodies. About once in six weeks I have to check on what they have learned in the backyard and set them right."

"On Sunday when the children turn on the radio," said Dr. Watson, "they hear some preacher telling them that they should lean on Jesus. That's wrong. They should be told and taught to lean on themselves. Then someone tells them they should be in Sunday school. They don't know why and I don't either. I hope they will never feel that they should be in Sunday school."

Men and women who were pampered as children, invariably accept pampering when they marry, says Dr. Watson. If they are not made a fuss over continually they think they are abused and misunderstood. "Would that partially eliminate petting?" I asked him.

"What's the matter with petting?"

"I mean promiscuously," I said meekly.

"Well, what's the matter with it? Nothing wrong with petting. Let them pet. It is merely a preparation for the love of life. When children reach the age where sex manifests itself then the petting is all right."

When Dr. Watson was psychologist at Johns Hopkins University he experimented extensively with both children and animals, and proved to his satisfaction that fears bred in little folks by their elders, not only were hard on their emotional life but hampered their personality.

Dr. Watson smiles with amusement at the protests of teachers who "soft-boil" children, and asserts that the child's only hope for a brilliant future is in a system that will eliminate indulgent mothers and substitute specially trained women to care for them from birth, not more than four children to be placed in care of each woman. "But try and get it over," said Dr. Watson. "I don't hope to see it in my day."

'GOLDEN SNARE' HOLDS BOARDS AT CALIFORNIA

Another triumph of the silent drama is David Hartford's production of "The Golden Snare," which opened an engagement at the Richmond Theatre last night. Adapted from James Oliver Curwood's fascinating story of the same name, this remarkable photodrama, with a compelling vital plot, fairly smacks of the charm and mystery and primitiveness of the Far North country amid which the scenes are laid.

Lewis Stone, as a member of the Royal Northwest Mounted selected to bring back "dead or alive" Bram Johnson, long wanted fugitive from justice, is the featured player and gives a wonderful characterization. Wallace Beery plays the hunted Bram Johnson; Ruth Renick portrays the girl Celia, around whom the mystery of the golden snare and the madman of the barren centers. Others in the cast are Melbourne MacDowell, Wellington Playter, Frances Macdonald and Baby Esther Scott.

A beautiful romance is interwoven in this thrilling tale of the snow country. The photography is remarkable. Night in the Arctic, a raging blizzard, B. Johnson driving his pack of wolf dogs—these are a few of the striking scenes which will linger in the memory.

"The Golden Snare," distributed by Art Brand Productions, Inc., is an extraordinary and splendid picture.

Other film features include Charlie Chaplin in "The Emigrant," one of the comedies that made Charlie famous; the last chapter of "The Crimson Flash," featuring Cullen Landis; and "Ruling The Rooster," a screen novelty.

Services Today For Late L. B. Peterson

Services will be held in the Wilson and Kratzer chapel this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for L. B. Peterson, 58, Standard Oil company employee for the past many years, who passed away at the home of Charles Richardson, 26 Glenn avenue yesterday noon. Cremation will take place in the Berkeley crematory.

Deceased is believed to have a sister living in the east. He was a native of Nebraska, a resident of the state the past 25 years and of Richmond the past 16 years. Services will be in charge of Onetha tribe of Redmen of which lodge deceased was a member.

"What's the matter with petting?" I asked him.

CLYDE HEADRICK AWARDED FIGHT IN SEVENTH ROUND ON FOUL

RICHMOND SECOND IN TRACK MEETING

WILD PITCH LOSES GAME FOR LOCALS

Pitcher Taylor of the Richmond high school team had a fatal streak of wildness in the seventh inning of a game played against University high at Bushrod Park, Oakland, yesterday, and as a result the locals took a 2 to 1 defeat.

Outside of the seventh inning Taylor pitched brilliant ball, allowing only two hits during the entire game.

The count was knotted as University went to bat in the final stanza of a seven-inning game. Inability to find the plate caused Taylor to walk three men. He struck on the next two, but hit the third man to face him, forcing in the deciding run. Taylor struck out the last batter to retire the side.

Richmond scored its lone marker in the fourth with a single and double. University's first run came in the second inning. Gordon, shortstop for Richmond, led at bat with two hits.

Richmond lined up as follows: Taylor, p.; Swenson, c.; Viano, 1b.; C. Pinto, 2b.; Gordon, ss.; Williams, 3b.; Muylle, lf.; J. Pinto, cf.; Baldwin, r.

Tomorrow Coach Barbieri will send his men against the St. Mary preps in a game to be played on the first street grounds. The teams will take the field at 2:30.

Woodmen To Form Team

Members of the Modern Woodmen, meeting last night in Redmen hall, laid preliminary plans for the organization of a baseball team. It is not known whether the team will participate in league contests. The organization boasts of plenty of diamond talent. Last year a team was entered in the mid-winter league.

The organization laid plans for a competitive drill to be held with the Fruitvale order in the near future.

E. Howell, council, presided at the session.

Attell Rates Kid Lavigne Next To Battling Joe Gans

NEW YORK, March 16.—To most of us the news dispatch from Detroit, Mich., relating the death there at 58 of George H. (Kid) Lavigne, former lightweight champion of the world, was simply an echo of ancient ring days. It was sad, as any death is, but to few in New York did it carry any personal message of grief.

Yet, as hands blared at the Silver Slipper, a little fellow sitting at one of the ringside tables received the news with a distinct shock.

"The little fellow was Abe Attell," "Lavigne dead?" was Attell's first startled query. And then—"It's too bad. The ring never had a finer champion than the 'Gaw Kid'."

Attell lost himself in memories of brighter days as he recalled the first occasion on which he had seen Lavigne fight: "I was only about 13 years old at the time Lavigne and Wolcott fought their second fight in Mechanics pavilion in San Francisco. It was from those two that I first got an idea of what fighting was. Lavigne's style, his manner of laying in a left jab, made an impression on me that I never forgot.

"I would run him next to Joe Gans as the greatest lightweight of the last thirty years. He could box and he could hit, and he was game as a pebble. I can see him now as he moved around the ring, strong as a young bull. It is hard to realize that he has passed along. It's too bad."

George Lavigne, born in Saginaw, Mich., in December, 1869, succeeded to the lightweight title after the retirement of Jack McAuliffe. He held the title six years and repeatedly went out of his division to face heavier men. He beat Wolcott twice, Dick Birge, the English middleweight champion, fought two draws with the late Young Griffo, Australian phantom, and was beaten in a twenty-round bout by Frank Erne. For the last several days Lavigne had been employed as a night watchman in the Ford Motor Company plant at Detroit.

Sinclair Funds Held In Secret

(By Universal Service) CHICAGO, March 16.—Harry E. Sinclair's $250,000 slush fund donation to the Republican National Committee in 1923 was kept secret from the public for all these years through a tacit agreement on the part of the Democratic and G. O. P. treasurers not to file their party records with congress. It was testified at the Senate Teapot Dome hearings here today.

The committee expects to close its sessions here tomorrow.

Local Tennis Club Drops Fresno Tilt

Inability of I. S. Fish, ranking tennis wielder of the Richmond Tennis club, to journey to Fresno Sunday, has caused the local organizations to forfeit tomorrow's contests. It was announced by A. S. Remmell, chairman of the tournament committee. Fish is the only player on the local club to win matches during the first two series. It is reported that contests will be arranged with other clubs during the summer months.

SAN PABLO VS. PORT COSTA The San Pablo Juniors will cross bats with the Port Costa ball club tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. The game will be played at Port Costa.

WORK ON DIAMOND The baseball diamond at Nicholl park was being conditioned in scraping the paths, installing the backstop and putting the bleachers into shape.

OAKS AGAIN WIN BY 4-3

The Oakland Coast League club scored its second straight win over the Wichita team of the Western League yesterday afternoon by a score of 4 to 3. The Aorns got off to an early lead when they smacked one enough hits to send three runners over the plate. Deacon Jones, who started for the Oaks, got into trouble in the third inning when the Wichita team scored a run, and again in the fourth when the middle weatherers chalked up two more. Gould and Hasty finished for Howard's clan.

Seals Defeat Pittsburg At Monterey, 11-7

Nick Williams' slugging Seals defeated the Pittsburg club of the National league at Monterey yesterday, scoring all ten victories. The Seals were out in front at every stage of the game, while pitchers Jacobs, Moudy and May kept the Pirates from getting too dangerous.

Roy Johnson, who is being groomed to take Lefty O'Doul's place in the outfield, clouted out two long home runs, Jerry Doro, candidate for the first base position, also got a homer.

Great Quake In Unknown Parts Being Traced

CHICAGO, March 16.—An earth quake that rocked the planet at intervals for four hours set scientists scurrying to decipher today to trace the source of the disturbance.

Observatories at the University of Chicago and elsewhere in this section indicated the origin of the quake as about 5,500 miles from Chicago, probably in a southeasterly direction.

The first of three powerful shocks was recorded at 11:20 last night, the second and heaviest one at midnight and the third at 2:15 this morning.

BERKELEY IS WINNER WITH 118 POINTS

Richmond High School track and field men, competing in a three-corner meet yesterday at Berkeley against the college city high school and Piedmont, scored a total of 57½ points, to take second place. Piedmont, substituting for the St. Mary's fresh, was nosed out by the locals, the Oakland school amassing 53½ points. Berkeley, as was expected, ran away with the meet, piling up a total of 118 points and taking first place in nearly every event.

Coch Hitt's men made a surprisingly good showing and he was given an opportunity to get a line on his material. Bumgarner stood out for the locals, tying with Berkeley for first place in the pole vault with a leap of 10 feet 6 inches. Roland of Berkeley, and Norman Schaefer, Richmond fought it out for the shot, the former winning with a throw of 44 feet 2 inches.

Nearly all of Richmond's points came on second and third places. Third places. Thought to be particularly weak in the mile and the half-mile, the locals appeared fairly strong. Felix finishing in third place and showing enough form to warrant the prediction that he will speed up in time. Van Fleet, Richmond, placed second in the half-mile, while Willie Fischer, a first year man, took fourth place.

Harley Stone ran against some stiff competition in the 220 and finished second. In the high jump, Bob Snelling tied for fourth place, clearing the bar at 5 feet 6 inches. Searsella ran a heady race in the 440 and made good time. Took Hall, running in the same event, also showed up well. Melin, who took third place in the broad jump, looks as though he will develop. Braceo and Charles Jackson looked good in the high hurdles, while Melin and Hurley displayed good form at the low hurdles.

Next Friday Richmond meets Crockett here.

Soccer Team Plays Oakland Tomorrow

TENNIS TEAM WINS DOUBLE

Although victorious in only one of the four matches played against Oakland Tech on the local court yesterday, the Richmond high school tennis club made a very creditable showing against their much stronger opponents. The two single matches went to Oakland in two straight sets, Bertel Petersen and Burwell Stone falling before the volleys of the Tech racket wielders.

Rold Bullock and Donald Seawright turned in a brilliant game in the first double, nailing out the opposition in two straight sets.

The second double, in which Thomas McBride and Melvin Thomason upheld the honor of the local school, went to Tech after three torrid sets.

Coch Matthews expressed himself as well satisfied with the showing made by his team and is arranging further contests.

Of course the south may bolt the party, but bolts never stay in place very long without nuts.—The Birmingham News.

Referee Hanlon Orders Scrap Halted As Roach Ignores His Warnings

Clyde Headrick, Montana battler, won on a foul from Chick Roach of Vallejo when Referee Eddie Hanlon stopped the fight in the seventh round of a scheduled ten-round main event at El Cerrito last night. After repeatedly warning Roach against hitting low, Hanlon abruptly waved the Vallejo scraper to his corner and awarded the bout to Headrick.

The milling up to this point appeared to be fairly even, with neither of the fighters extending themselves. They fought at 158 pounds.

In the semi-windup, which proved to be the best bout of the evening, Joe Limas, El Cerrito, took a six round decision over Chipney Miller, colored battler of San Francisco. The fight was a return engagement, following a draw at the last show.

Manuel Vasquez was decided by Elmer Anderson of Santa Rosa in a four round tilt. They fought at 140 pounds. Vasquez, a sly boxer from Berkeley, suffered his first reverse in sixteen starts.

Archie Lazar, San Francisco, won over Joe Vierra, Oakland in four rounds. In the curtain raiser, Eddie Mecca, of Oakland, won from Freddie Sueyraz on a technical K. O. in the first round. Hanlon stopping the bout when Sueyraz appeared unable to continue. A large crowd witnessed the contests.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 15.—Jimmy Welsh was riding on a ferry from Oakland to Frisco one day last winter, dreamily slapping a folded newspaper against his knee, when his eye happened to catch the word "Welsh" in a headline.

Tearing open the sheet the words: "Giant's trade Hornsby for Welsh and Hogan" screamed at him.

"If the fans in New York were surprised when they heard about that deal, how do you suppose I felt?" asks Jim. "I was so dazed I don't know why I didn't jump into to bay. But after I came down to earth I was riding on top of the world."

"It meant another chance for me. Once Welsh was one of those Coas' beauties that bob up every now and then, The Braves forked over $30,000 for him. Welsh wasn't a thirty grand performer in Boston. He was a yood player, but not a rip-roaring yood as he was touted.

This trade gives him another chance to be one.

"A trade always boisters a player and puts new life in a fellow, and I think you'll find me going like sixty in New York," predicts Welsh.

That's just what McGraw figures on, too. "I think Welsh is a lot better player than he showed in Boston," says McGraw. "I've studied the fellow and he can go get those flies, and he's a natural hitter. He's underrated."

Welsh is one of seven nimble hard-hitting athletes trying to crash the New York outfield. Harper and Roush are regarded as fixtures in right and center, but there are O'Doul, Welsh, Jahn, Mann and Fullis to be contented with. There isn't a weak man in the lot.

County Traffic Officers To Go On Flood Duty

MARTINEZ, March 16.—Receiving emergency orders from Frank Snook, chief of the state division of motor vehicles, Traffic Inspector F. A. Leber, Traffic Captain George Belon and Traffic Officers M. L. Barbee of Martinez and Charles Nissen of Richmond left here this afternoon to enter upon immediate duty in the flooded Santa Clara river valley.

The contra costa officers left here shortly before 2 p. m. by automobile an hour after receiving Snook's order.

Information locally is to be expected that Snook has ordered about one-half of the available traffic officers in the northern half of the state in patrol and police duty in the flooded zone. There was no indication as to the flooded zone. There was no indication as to the length of time that the Contra Costa officers would be kept in the south.

Their orders directed that they report to the inspector for the Southern California district immediately for duty.

Baptist Hall Dedicated At Social Dinner

With more than 300 members and invited guests present, the new social hall of the First Baptist church was last night dedicated at a dinner prepared by the Ladies' Aid society. The Ladies' Aid society of the First Christian Church served the dinner to permit the women of the Baptist church to enjoy the program.

Rev. Weldon Wilson, pastor of the church, was toastmaster and introduced the speakers whose topics were taken from Bible texts appropriate to the occasion. R. H. Kinney's text referred to architecture, so he called upon R. H. Tuttle of Berkeley, architect of the building.

The text that Carl Longacre received concerned builders and he called upon G. A. Tandy and C. L. Theis for a few remarks.

Mrs. T. E. Woods' talk was on womanhood and the help wives are to their husbands. Mrs. Theis and Mrs. Tandy were then called upon.

Sanford Fleming, instructor in the Berkeley Baptist Divinity School and who occupied the pulpit here prior to the appointment of Rev. Wilson, spoke on the duties of recreation in connection with the church and contrasted present activities with the days of the Puritans.

A trio, composed of Madeline Whittles, cellist; Andel Mansfield, violinist and Ethel Vestal, pianist played a number of selections.

Oliver Crigler in his address called upon the plastering contractor, Clifford Jackson. Mrs. C. E. Tingley responded with a few words in the absence of Rev. Tingley who is now in the east.

C. E. Parker spoke on the church.

Miss Helen Moorehouse, accompanied by Miss Ethel Vestal, sang a number of solos.

Mrs. Harry Watson on behalf of the women of the church presented Mrs. Wilson, wife of the pastor, with a large basket of flowers.

Professor Stacey R. Warburton of the Berkeley Baptist Divinity School delivered the dedicatory address.

A rally of the intermediates of the bay region Presbyterian churches was held in Oakland last evening at the Park Boulevard church. Missionaries from Korea, India, and China, were the speakers, telling of the work being done for the benefit of the young people in those countries.

The largest delegation at the meeting was from Richmond, many local church members making the trip to Oakland.

The Core

toward the man and men she accused.

Sally is a pretty girl, but apparently not a very intelligent one; that is, she has not a very comprehensive mind. Had she thought less of gold digging and more of the pure alloy of human things she probably would never have turned the "party" in which she seems to have voluntarily taken part, into a rather new dream of "joy" to come.

In this attitude she followed the ways of the weak who fall and then blame others for their frailties.

Sam Ewing written in the San Francisco Bulletin that Nance O'Neill, famous actor and stage favorite, regrets that many of the old landmarks of bay cities have disappeared. Miss O'Neill loved California and she had reason to. Her career at the old California Theatre in San Francisco was marked with wonderful success and such keen critics as Ashton Stevens aided her in obtaining her continued recognition that she had already started with astounding impulse.

The changes that the good actors regret have been bewildering to all of us, but they were the natural consequence of progress, inspiration and initiative.

Miss O'Neill mentioned that she regretted the cutting down of beautiful trees of San Jose and those of other bay district cities. She probably referred to the great trees of the San Jose Alameda drive. She must give San Jose credit, however, for other trees that have grown to adornment since the days of the Alameda's Peppers.

This is St. Patrick's Day and it reminds at least one of us what large parades were used to have on both sides of the bay in the days when the Hibernian societies led the marching vanguard. It was great sport for the boys of the time mentioned to get in line with the tramping drunks and often there would be a general fight. There was lots of fun. It is good to look back on the days of yore, but the celebration of St. Patrick's Day is in our present generation a more finished and reverend affair.

Miramar Chapter Holds Meeting

Miramar chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, held a roll call last night in Masonic hall and heard many interesting talks from pioneer members of the organization. The tables were beautifully decorated in a color scheme of green and white. Cards and refreshments were enjoyed. The singing of Auld Lang Syne closed the evening.

It was decided to hold a short business meeting on the 6th of April, since the worthy grand matron will pay an official visit to the order on the following day.

Bus Driver May Plead Guilty; Get Leniency

Steve Vucinich, Oakland bus driver, is slated for a hearing before Justice of the Peace Arthur Alstrom next Tuesday morning, as the result of his arrest Thursday night by State Traffic Officer Chcek on charges of driving while under the influence of liquor and possession and transportation of liquor. The chase ended when Vucinich's car overturned in attempting to avoid striking a car coming from the opposite direction.

Before Judge Alstrom yesterday morning Vucinich indicated that he would plead guilty to the charges, with the possibility the latter charge will be reduced to reckless driving. The court gave Vucinich permission to take his car, which had been held by officers.

Marcus, If Aided, May Enter U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The Marquis De La Palaise, who is better known as the husband of Gloria Swanson, will be admitted to the United States as soon as his movie star wife submits some necessary affidavits to the Labor Department, it was indicated today.

The American Consul General at Paris refused to vize his passport on the ground that he had already had two temporary stays of six months each in the United States. Officials explained that this was merely a formality and that unless there is some other reason which is not known here, he will not be held up for long.

To Appear Thursday In Trunk Case

A. Banducci, 2616 Maine avenue, will appear before Justice of the Peace Arthur Alstrom next Thursday to answer a charge of driving an overloaded truck on the San Pablo Dam road.
